Journal Aims and Scope:

JTA aims to be an Open Access forum for scientific exchange and knowledge transfer on tourism. The journal welcomes original submissions that explore and contribute towards the following areas:

- Understanding tourism from theoretical and conceptual contributions, methodological approach and empirical research
- Promoting studies with critical points of view and perspectives.
- Publishing research from different academic disciplines applied to tourism: economy, marketing, company, geography, heritage, political, sociology, social-psychology, anthropology, law, technology, ecology, etc.
- Disseminating multidisciplinary and holistic issues applied to tourism: environment, urbanism, culture, training, management, planning, image, sustainability, innovation, accessibility, sharing economy, social media, networks of actors in tourism, management of the on-line reputation, etc.

The journal is committed to identifying and deepening new lines of future research: smart destinations, sharing tourism, dark tourism, creative destinations, tourism decreasing, international terrorism in tourism destinations, climatic change, future scenarios, and other innovative topics yet to be discovered.
